Welcome to the IHE

Welcome to the Institute of Highway Engineers

Our Vision

To be the Institute of Choice for Highway Engineers.

Our Mission

To provide professional development opportunities, support and leadership for individuals to achieve and maintain professional recognition.

What we do:

We have been registering engineers and technicians with the Engineering Council since 1972 and accrediting academic courses since 1989. IHE membership formally recognises members' qualifications and industry experience.

Our aims are to-

- Support career development.
- Provide a quality service to our members.
- To change perceptions in order to meet the aspirations of our members.
- Increase media profile and networking opportunities.
- Provide value for money to our members.

IHE member benefits:

- Access to a UK-wide branch network with CPD activities for members.
- Access to IHE's network of highways industry professionals.
- IHE's weekly news, events, jobs and technical e-newsletters.
- One-to-one qualification advice from the IHE.
- IHE's online members area featuring professional registration guidance, technical guidance, resources, CPD recording tools and CPD Hub.
- Access to IHE's technical forums.
- Free subscription to Highways Magazine.
- Member discounts at over 5,000 businesses across the UK.

An Introduction by IHE President Stephen Webb IEng FIHE

Welcome to the Institute of Highway Engineers. You join us at an exciting time for our Institute and the highway engineering sector more widely. The IHE aims to raise the profile of highway engineers and see their career, skills and wider profession recognised in its own right and as one with equal status to complementary professions such as architecture or civil engineering more widely. Our ethos is that this is an Institute run by members, for our members and as a President and one who has very much benefitted from working within the Institute's teams for many years, I would highly recommend becoming an IHE Committee member of your local branch or serving on the national IHE Council in addition to taking advantage of the career development opportunities offered by the IHE.

The IHE is more than just a membership organisation or 'club', we aim to train and support a dedicated passionate workforce with the necessary specialist skills and expertise the highways industry needs to deliver vital infrastructure throughout the world. We support our existing members via training and Continuing Professional Development (CPD) opportunities and commission and create new educational and training courses specifically aimed at highway engineers and practitioners.

As a fellow highway engineer I have been fortunate to work for a number of professional organisations who have proactively promoted registration. This, coupled with outstanding mentors throughout my development, has encouraged me to become professionally recognised and I would advise all IHE members to explore the many options we have available for Professional Registration. The IHE is committed to signposting opportunities for new entrants in the sector by giving clear unambiguous advice on Professional Registration and the various routes open to achieve this.

Finally, may I again welcome you to the IHE and hope you find membership beneficial to you in your career.

Yours faithfully,

Stephen Webb

What makes the IHE?

Professional Registration

The IHE is licensed by the UK Engineering Council to award ICTTech, EngTech, IEng, and CEng professional titles. We are also licensed by BCS, The Chartered Institute for IT, to award RITTech and CITP professional titles.

Professional registration can increase your earning potential, improve your career prospects and attain industry recognition for your years of experience, expertise and hard work.

IHE Highway Engineering Academy

The IHE suite of training and development courses delivers the qualifications, skills and knowledge demanded by the highways industry that are in short-supply.

The Academy also provides an opportunity for qualified engineers and technicians to undertake training to refine and upgrade their skill set for working within the highway industry.

Our training courses can lead to an industry-recognised Professional Certificate or Diploma.

Local Branch Network

IHE branches are found in every region of the United Kingdom. Our branches are led by an elected committee of IHE members who run regional activities such as site visits, CPD seminars, technical meetings and social events.

On signing up you will automatically be allocated to your nearest branch.

IHE Membership - Supporting Highway and Traffic Engineers at Every Stage of Their Career

Join us and demonstrate your technical skills, qualifications and expertise to clients and employers. We offer membership types for highways professionals at every stage of their career.
