

Cooperative Councils'
Innovation Network

Members' Pack

Welcome from Cllr Jim Robbins

Leader of Swindon Borough Council
Chair of the Cooperative Councils' Innovation Network

The Cooperative Councils' Innovation Network is now the fastest-growing cross-party network in local government.

It was founded in 2012 by Baroness Taylor of Stevenage, the recently appointed Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State in the Ministry of Housing, Communities & Local Government, Steve Reed OBE MP, Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs and Jim McMahon OBE MP, Minister of State in the Department for Housing, Communities and Local Government. These three former council leaders came together with a vision of demonstrating the power of cooperation in action in councils and communities and sharing the unique energy that cooperation brings with fellow councillors and their councils. I don't think that, twelve years later, they could have imagined the strength and innovation that characterises the Network today.

Our cooperative values and principles stay clear and strong, supported by our Values and Principles Board with membership from across the cooperative movement.

As the chair of our Executive Oversight Committee, I have the privilege of leading our proactive approach to innovation. We use our Membership subscriptions to fund policy labs and prototypes, providing our Councils with the space to innovate without risking scarce council funds.

Over the years, we have developed ground-breaking cooperative policy documents on topics as diverse as Growing an Inclusive Cooperative Economy, Community Economic Development Plans, and Cooperation at the Grassroots. We have also organised Study Visits to Mondragon in the Basque Country and Emilia-Romagna in northern Italy for Members and Officers to discover truly cooperative regions for themselves.

As a network of councils, we are actively working on community wealth building and what is needed to grow cooperative economies across the UK. As we face the ongoing challenge of the cost-of-living crisis, our Members and their Councils reclaim the traditions of community action, community engagement, and civic empowerment that can transform communities.

The new government give us a fantastic opportunity to push forward and highlight the role of cooperative values in delivering their missions for the country: from community energy projects, fair employment, community wealth building and much more. Change is happening.

February 2025

Introduction

Established in 2012, the Network was the brainchild of Steve Reed OBE, MP (now our Honorary President), who, together with Jim McMahon OBE, MP and Baroness Taylor of Stevenage, turned the idea into reality. The Network comprises councils, organisations and supporters from across the UK and is the fastest-growing cross-party network in local government.

Our Members believe that the unprecedented challenges facing the public sector and local communities mean that traditional top-down governance models and economic growth are no longer fit for purpose. They want to reclaim the traditions of community action, community engagement, and civic empowerment that can transform communities. This approach will help deliver radical and innovative programmes designed, led, and delivered in partnership with communities and other sector partners, maximising the social dividend they bring. It has also always been the purpose of the Network to share our developing good practice and support one another in our cooperative aims and values.

There is a growing interest, across the political spectrum, in how to share power and responsibility with citizens, support the development of community and civic life and find more cost-effective ways to create thriving and resilient communities.

The Network is a Special Interest Group of the Local Government Association and is open to all UK councils. Councillors and Officers are encouraged to participate in Network discussions and events, sharing ideas and best practice across the UK.

From coop councils to coop places

Council policy is informed by experience and practice, drawing on, influencing, and framing national and international policy and political debates about the future of public services, local democracy, and communities across the country. It has enormous potential for sharing its approach elsewhere in the UK and overseas. Our work recognises the need to define a new model for local government built on civic leadership, with councils working in equal partnership with local people to shape and strengthen communities; replacing traditional models of top-down governance and service delivery with local leadership, genuine cooperation, and built on the founding traditions of the cooperative movement: collective action, cooperation, empowerment, and enterprise.

The cooperative business model allows people and communities to meet their needs and aspirations, offering a unique answer to contemporary problems. The model is a proven self-help model.

Cooperative enterprises play a significant role in driving our economy, showing resilience in tough economic times by creating jobs, adapting to social change, and continuing growth and success.

Statement of Values and Principles

Our Values are what we believe in

While not a registered cooperative, the Cooperative Councils' Innovation Network has adopted the Cooperative Values developed by the International Cooperative Alliance:

Cooperatives are based on the values of self-help, self-responsibility, democracy, equality, equity, and solidarity. In the tradition of their founders, cooperative members believe in the ethical values of honesty, openness, social responsibility and caring for others.

Our Principles guide the way we, and our Members, put our Values into action

The Cooperative Councils' Innovation Network endorses the Principles of the International Cooperative Alliance:

- Voluntary and open membership
- Democratic member control
- Member economic participation
- Autonomy and independence

- Education, training, and information
- Cooperation among cooperatives; and concern for community.

In acknowledging that councils are not in themselves registered cooperatives, we and our Members have developed Principles that have grown from those of the International Cooperative Alliance and are relevant within the context of local government:

The icons on the following page are used to indicate how Cooperative Councils are putting our cooperative principles into practice, demonstrating the 'cooperative difference' in the work that they are doing.

Members' Pack

1. Social partnership – We will strengthen the cooperative partnership between citizens, communities, enterprises, and Councils, based on a shared sense of responsibility for well-being and mutual benefit.
2. Democratic engagement – We will support the active engagement of the full range of residents in decision-making and priority-setting.
3. Co-production – We will develop systems that enable citizens to be equal partners in designing and commissioning public services and determining public resource use.
4. Enterprise and social economy – We will promote community-based approaches to economic development that focus on supporting the creation of jobs, social enterprises and other businesses and providing an environment for cooperative and mutual enterprises to thrive.
5. Maximising social value – We will support the development of a framework and criteria for social value, giving substance to the concept and supporting Councils with the tools to ensure better local social and economic outcomes.
6. Community leadership and a new role for councillors – We will explore ways for Councils to act as a platform for helping the community to contribute to local outcomes, and to re-think the role of councillors as community connectors, brokers, and leaders.
7. New models of meeting priority needs – In exploring new ways of meeting the priority needs of our communities we will encourage models, such as cooperatives and mutuals, which give greater influence and voice to staff and users.
8. Innovation – We will embrace innovation in how we work with local communities to drive positive change.
9. Learning – We will capture and 'expand' the experience and learning from individual projects and approaches to encourage broader application of cooperative principles within individual Member Councils and across the Network.
10. Walking the talk – As a membership organisation, we will make this statement of our principles operational by:
 - Cooperation among Members: Our Members work together to help each other implement our values, sharing experiences and learning
 - Openness of membership: Full, Associate and Affiliate Membership is open to any qualifying Council, organisation or individual who shares our values and is committed to putting them into action
 - Co-production of the Network's work: Members help shape the Network's work programme and the content of events and written products
 - Action-focused: The Network is a vehicle for helping Councils translate cooperative values and principles into policy and practice
 - Membership-based: The Network is majority funded by modest membership subscriptions from its Member Councils, Associates and Affiliates
 - Non-party-political: Members share the belief that working cooperatively within and across communities holds the key to tackling today's challenges

Being a Cooperative Council

There are two key themes:

Community Wealth Building

- Promote a progressive procurement policy
- Support the creation of a regional mutual/community bank by investing
- Work with local anchor institutions to buy and recruit local
- Regulate rent and rates for 'local' businesses in council-owned property
- Offer business rate rebates for those businesses that become Living Wage Accredited
- Champion Local Employment schemes
- Have insourcing Council Services as an objective

Cooperative Placemaking

- Develop a cooperative development strategy
- Establish a cooperative development network
- Commit to community engagement in local decision making including participatory budgeting
- Invest in local community production, particularly those focusing on community energy to tackle the climate emergency
- Promote the circular economy
- Support local enterprises to convert into coops/worker coops
- Have an Asset Transfer policy to manage land and assets which support Community Land Trusts

This report seeks to demystify the Asset Transfer process and encourage more councils to be bold in their plans for community assets.

Growing an inclusive Cooperative Economy (2022)

Study visit to Mondragon (2022) – The CCIN led a study visit to the Mondragon Corporation in the Basque Country in October 2022. Over two intensive days, 15 delegates underwent an immersive experience visiting their headquarters, Industrial and R&D enterprises, and the university campus.

Democratising Policy Solutions - This is not a manual on coproduction (2023)

– Led by Rochdale Council this project was an extension of a Policy Prototype undertaken in Rochdale Borough which developed a toolkit for community engagement. A group of CCIN Councils, Affiliates and citizens from the various places, got together to share their practice and experience around Co-production. Through workshops and enquiries, they developed an encyclopaedia of ideas about how local government is engaging, and can engage, communities in local democracy. The product is a reflection and a set of tools to help those who want to think and act cooperatively when they are making things happen together.

Arts & Culture for social cohesion (2023)

– Cardiff Council, North Hertfordshire District Council, Oldham Council, Stevenage Borough Council. Culture and arts can be strong drivers of development, social cohesion, and change. At the heart of social cohesion is social inclusion. Communities with low social cohesion often have low involvement or access to civic engagement, economic opportunity, and social participation. Supporting the role of culture is vital to building social cohesion. The Community Engagement Panel for Arts & Culture considered how increasing Arts & Culture offerings in town centres encouraged people to use town centres with a knock-on effect of increased footfall to retail, hospitality businesses and other high street amenities.

Coop Option Training (2023) – Led by Kirklees Council and delivered by Stir to Action, Coop Option Training is designed to increase the knowledge and capacity around alternative business models of the following:

- Business development workers of local authorities and LEPs
- Community development workers
- Social Enterprise Advisors

The training comprised a core module around support for alternative business models and two optional models on finance and legal structure and governance for those wanting a deeper dive.

Study Visit to Emilia-Romagna (2024) – The CCIN led a study visit to Emilia-Romagna. The region is known worldwide for its dense network of cooperatives that contribute to 30% of the region's GDP and involve 2/3rds of the population as members. Cooperatives in Emilia-Romagna are present in most sectors of the economy, including retail, agribusiness, social services, financial services, insurance, and transportation. Learning from other network members is an important benefit of Network Membership, and this visit allowed elected Members and Officers to see first-hand how a cooperative region operates. During the three-day visit, 25 delegates from across the UK met the Presidents of several Italian cooperatives.

Cooperative Approaches to Sustainable Food

– Led by Oldham Council, this project focuses on how cooperative models can transform food systems, making them more sustainable, inclusive, and resilient. By prioritising local supply chains, reducing waste, and empowering communities, cooperative approaches tackle key challenges like food insecurity and environmental impact. The findings showcase practical strategies for councils and communities to support cooperative food initiatives, enabling fairer access to fresh, sustainable produce while strengthening local economies and bringing communities together.

Councils' Cooperative Development Toolkit

– Led by Kirklees Council, this Toolkit takes users from “We need more coops!” to a clear understanding of what they have, local opportunities and well-defined steps. Divided into four sections: Back to Basics, What can I do?, Doing your homework and Taking action, it is supported by a wealth of resources that will strengthen any council's strategy for cooperative development whether just starting out or building on years of existing work.

bit.ly/CCIN-coopdevt

Cooperative values-driven AI – Led by Wigan Council and supported by Mutual Ventures, this project developed a guidance framework based on cooperative principles to help people assess AI's potential and suitability. It focuses on providing the basic knowledge necessary to ask pertinent questions and ensure the ethical and cooperative exploration and adoption of AI at a time of rapid deployment across public services. The policy lab included the creation of a framework including: the main use cases for AI: the key enablers within an organisation; important risks and mitigations; and how to align the adoption of AI with ethical CCIN Principles. The Policy Lab was formally launched at the 2024 LGA Conference.

Social Value Toolkit for Councils – Initially led by Oxford City Council, this toolkit shows councils how to apply the freedoms and flexibilities of the legal framework, including the Procurement Act 2023, to achieve community wealth-building and cooperative placemaking goals. Drawing on best practice across the network and beyond, it seeks to expand your council's understanding of what's possible. It highlights the tools, methods and mindsets that will generate positive, policy-aligned social value. This toolkit has been developed in collaboration with lawyers, academics, social enterprise leaders, consultants, and cooperative councils.

Tackling the Barriers to Building a Cooperative Economy

– Led by Oldham Council, this project explores how councils can break down barriers to build a thriving cooperative economy. By fostering collaboration, fairness, and community ownership, cooperatives offer innovative solutions to challenges like inequality and local economic decline. The findings highlight practical steps for councils to create supportive environments, empowering cooperatives to deliver lasting benefits for people, places, and the planet. Together, we can drive a more inclusive and sustainable future.

Bidding to deliver a Policy Project

Members can lead a maximum of one project at any time; to encourage more councils to get involved.

All funded projects must demonstrate the 'cooperative difference' and explicitly show this using our Statement of Values and Principles \(councils.coop/about-us/values-and-principles\).

Policy Lab funding supports research, collaboration and implementation of cooperative initiatives that involve multiple Network Members. This work is incredibly valuable for our Members, allowing us to share best practices on a national footprint, collaborate with like-minded local authorities and partners, and work together to solve some of the complex problems facing local government and the communities we represent.

We recommend engaging a minimum of three other CCIN Members to create a working group to support the development of your project. We welcome applications from all Members, but the application must be submitted and overseen by a Full Member Council. Members will have up to two years to deliver a Policy Lab. Applications will be considered for funding of up to £20,000, dependent on their scale and ambition.

Policy Prototypes are smaller projects for Members who want to deliver in their locality on behalf of the Network. This funding is available to councils of all sizes, Opposition Groups and Minority Administrations. Members will have up to twelve months to deliver a Policy Prototype. Applications will be considered for funding of up to £2,000.

Dynamic Purchase System

As Cooperative Councils, our Members are at the cutting edge of policy innovation – and it can be a tough place to be. Councils often need to move quickly and flexibly to be on the front foot when it comes to 'doing things differently'.

Sometimes it is necessary to bring in extra capacity and specific expertise to be able to do this, and there can also be a need to seek independent challenge to test assumptions and policy design. The CCIN recognises this and wants its Members to be as enabled as possible to develop practical policy solutions as quickly and informed as possible – and this is where the Dynamic Purchasing System (DPS) comes in.

In 2019 the Cooperative Councils' Innovation Network (CCIN) undertook a tender process to find organisations that could:

- inspire and design innovative cooperative policy over several policy areas and themes, with a focus on delivering differently and redesigning public services in line with cooperative values and principles
- demonstrate the ability to build capacity and leave a legacy that continues to deliver outcomes even after the funding and supporting resources have moved out

- bring credibility and profile to the work of the CCIN reaching across a wide range of sectors and agencies.

A DPS is a completely electronic system to purchase goods, works or services. Unlike a traditional framework, suppliers can apply to join at any time. It is an 'open market' solution designed to provide buyers with access to a pool of pre-qualified suppliers.

Our multi-supplier DPS allows all CCIN Members and Associate Members (and the CCIN itself) to select from a specialist, prescribed pool of organisations to help in developing policy, implementing prototypes and building capacity, both in communities and inside the organisation. The DPS has been split into 2 lots.

The lots

Lot 1 – Policy Development & Testing

Lot 2 – Capacity Building

The DPS runs from 1 April 2020 to 31 March 2029. Because it's dynamic, organisations can apply to join the DPS at any time during that period.
