

Surface Dressing

In the current economic climate, when budgets are tight, it is the Highway Engineer's choice when it comes to ensuring our road network does not fall into further disrepair.

When applied correctly, Surface Dressing will seal the road surface, preventing oxidation and water ingress and extend the life of the carriageway for seven or more years. With our wealth of knowledge in this field we can recommend the optimum design for each individual road to clients to match their desires. We use only the best available polymer-modified intermediate and premium grade bitumen emulsions and high-quality aggregates. The end result is a durable, sealed surface, with improved skid resistance, that will protect the carriageway for many years to come!

Our extensive Surface Dressing fleet is one of the most modern in the UK and has been specifically assembled to enable us to Surface Dress virtually any type of road.
